- energy to use your talents to the full (as demonstrated by mastery in areas such as sports, music, debate, dance, theatre, and artistic pursuits, particularly where teamwork is involved)
- truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and protection of the weak, kindness, unselfishness and fellowship
- moral force of character and instincts to lead, and to take an interest in your fellow human beings.

Please see the Scholarships area of the Rhodes Trust website for full details: www.rhodeshouse.ox.ac.uk

The information below assumes that you have read and familiarised yourself with the basic selection criteria for the Rhodes Scholarships on the Rhodes Trust website. You should also pay close attention to the detailed Conditions of Tenure for the Scholarship.

1. Closing Date

Applications must be submitted online by 23:50 NZST, Monday, 16 July 2018.

2. Eligibility Criteria

- a. Nationality/citizenship: On 16 July in the year of application you must hold New Zealand citizenship or hold a New Zealand Permanent Resident Visa.
- b. Education/residency: By 16 July in the year of application you must have spent at least five of the previous ten years in New Zealand.
- c. Age: You must have reached your 19th and not have passed your 25th birthday on 01 October 2019, which means you must have been born after 30 September 1994 and on or before 1 October 2000. Note - candidates undertaking an MBChB must have passed their 19th and must not have passed their 26th birthday by 01 October 2019.
- d. Academic achievement: You must have completed (or will have completed by June / July 2019) an undergraduate degree from a college or university with a GPA 7.5/9 or higher (or equivalent). In this respect, please note carefully the requirements for your chosen course at Oxford, where entry requirements may exceed those of the Scholarship.

Multi-jurisdictional Candidates: If you meet the eligibility criteria for more than one Rhodes Constituency, you must only apply to one. You should apply to the Rhodes Constituency with which you have the greatest connection.

Inter-jurisdictional Candidates: If, as a result of moving between Rhodes Constituencies, you do not meet the eligibility criteria for any single Rhodes Constituency, you may be eligible to apply for inter-jurisdictional consideration. Please visit the 'Which Scholarship?' page for further details.

Global Scholarship Candidates: If you are not eligible to apply to any existing Rhodes Constituency (see list here) and you are not eligible to apply for inter-jurisdictional consideration, then you can apply for a Global Scholarship, subject to meeting all other Global Scholarship eligibility criteria and subject to institutional nomination. Please visit the 'Which Scholarship?' page for further details.

3. Application Procedure

- a. You can apply online from 01 May 2018 at <http://www.rhodeshouse.ox.ac.uk> via the scholarships tab.
- b. You must submit your application online, with all supporting documents, by 23:50 NZST, Monday, 16 July 2018.
- c. In preparation for making your application, you should read carefully the general information for candidates on the Rhodes website, the Conditions of Tenure for the Rhodes Scholarship, the information in this document and the graduate admissions pages of the University of Oxford: www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate.
- d. Shortlisted candidates will be invited to a social reception (e.g. a lunch or dinner reception) and an interview. No candidate will be selected without interview. You must be available to attend the interview and social reception, in person, as no accommodations can be made on date and time of these events. Interviews will be held in Wellington, early to mid November. Reasonable travel expenses incurred within New Zealand will be reimbursed by Universities NZ. If you are overseas, travel to New Zealand for the interview in person will be at your own expense.
- e. All applicants will be emailed with the outcome of their application.

4. Documents and details to be submitted with application

You must submit a completed application form on-line with the documents and information detailed below. All documents must be submitted in English, or with English translations included. Please note that, if you are invited to interview, you will be asked to bring the originals of all documents with you:

- a. A copy of your birth certificate or of the relevant page of your passport.
- b. If the document you provide to prove citizenship/residency does not show your date of birth you must include a copy of another document which does.
- c. An official transcript from the college or university at which you are studying, or have studied, showing grades achieved (to date). For New Zealand graduates/students you need to request this document from your university. For overseas students/graduates it is your responsibility to make sure that you obtain a copy of your academic record and include it with your application.
- d. The application asks you to confirm that you have spent at least five of the last ten years in New Zealand. As an eligibility criterion this means actually living in New Zealand, not merely being 'technically resident' in New Zealand for IRD or other such purposes. If you have spent some time overseas as part of a New Zealand degree this may be acceptable. The New Zealand Selection Committee reserves the option of judging eligibility on a case by case basis. The selectors may ask for evidence of time spent in New Zealand.
- e. A full curriculum vitae which should include details about academic qualifications, prizes, scholarships, positions of leadership, employment positions, involvement in student, voluntary, community or political activities and any cultural, musical or sporting accomplishments. This should not exceed two A4 (12pt) pages in length. Please do not include a photograph in your CV.
- f. A head-and-shoulders colour photograph (jpg format). Please note your photo will not be available to the selection committee until after final shortlisting decisions have been made.
- g. A personal statement of no more than 1,000 words. The personal statement is your chance to tell your story in your own voice: Who are you? What matters to you? What are you hoping to do in the world? Your academic transcript, your curriculum vitae and your reference letters will provide the substantive detail of your commitments and accomplishments, but this essay gives you the opportunity to cast the overarching narrative for the selection committee. You can find further guidance on the personal statement on the 'Completing Your Application' page.

Please ensure that your personal statement:

- i. Addresses your general interests and activities. What inspires you? What are your passions?
- ii. Discusses your aims and priorities and the contributions you have made and hope to make to the world and/or your local community;
- iii. Tells us which course / courses you are most attracted to at the University of Oxford and why. It is important that you have a firm idea of which course / courses are viable for you to study at the University of Oxford - not all University of Oxford courses are covered by the Rhodes Scholarship, you should refer to the Conditions of Tenure for further information. It is a good idea to discuss your proposed course of study with your current professors or lecturers in that field, and, if possible, with someone who has knowledge of United Kingdom universities. Additional sources of information are available online at www.ox.ac.uk/admissions, as well as on individual faculty/departmental websites. If you are selected for the Scholarship you will have the opportunity to revisit your course choice;
- iv. Demonstrates that you are able to meet the entry and application requirements of the specific course you have chosen. Please read the Oxford graduate studies course pages carefully: <http://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate>;
- v. If you wish to undertake a DPhil, you should provide a brief outline of your proposed research area, how it contributes to your future career plans, and list one or more researchers with whom you would like to work in Oxford.

Your personal statement should be entirely your own work, with no assistance received. Through the online application form you will be asked to verify and sign that the entered / uploaded personal statement is your own work and that no external help was given in its creation or editing.

- h. You will need to provide a list of six people (your referees) who are willing to submit references on your behalf:
 - i. You will need to provide email addresses of all your referees.
 - ii. At least three of your referees should be academics who have taught you in your undergraduate (or, if relevant, postgraduate) studies and who can comment in detail on your academic ability and how well they think you would fare at Oxford. Note – for successful Rhodes Scholarship applicants, these references can, in many cases, later be used to form part of the application to study at the University of Oxford, so it is important that you and your referees bear this in mind. See referee guidance on the final page of this document.
 - iii. Additional referees should testify to your character and/or your involvement in extra-curricular/service or leadership activities. These referees should be persons who are able to comment critically on whether you fulfil the extra-curricular, non-academic requirements of the Scholarship and who can speak in detail to your character.
 - iv. A good referee is one who knows you well, rather than a well-known person who only knows you superficially. Your referees will not typically be personal friends, relations or contemporaries. If you do request a reference from a referee who falls into this category, then they should make the connection clear within the reference.
 - v. Choose reliable people who are likely to respond to your request for a detailed reference, as their letters will be crucial to your application. Insufficient references will disqualify your application from being considered by the Selection Committee.
 - vi. Ask their permission before listing them as referees.
 - vii. Forward to them the Guidance for Referees available on the final pages of this document. They will receive an auto-generated email request for reference once you have completed the referee section of the online form. They will also be asked to provide their business and home (or mobile) telephone, as well as their postal address for verification purposes.

- viii. It is your responsibility to ensure that referees submit their reference in good time and by 23:50 NZST, 19 July 2018. Applicants can track the progress of their references within the application form.
- i. Please do not upload documents, certificates, testimonials or links / URL's other than those required.
- j. All applications must be submitted online. No alternate method of application is accepted. There is no application fee for submission of the Rhodes Scholarship application form.

5. Selection Procedure

- a. First Stage Selection Process: Applications will be reviewed by a selection panel, and prioritised for interview.
- b. Second Stage Selection Process: Applicants prioritised as a result of the first stage will be interviewed by video by at least two panel members.
- c. Third Stage Selection Process: The applications of candidates long listed as a result of the second stage will be presented to members of the National Selection Committee for their review. From this review a final shortlist of candidates will be created for the final interview process (see section 3 d).
- d. Candidates will be notified by e-mail of the outcome of each step of the process.
- e. Selection for the Rhodes Scholarship is made without regard to financial means.
- f. Selection for the Rhodes Scholarship is made without regard to marital status, race, ethnic origin, colour, gender, religion, sexual orientation, social background, disability, caste or other irrelevant distinction. We may collect this information for outreach and monitoring purposes, but responses will never be tracked back to individual applicants.
- g. If you meet the eligibility criteria for more than one Rhodes constituency, you must apply to one constituency only. You should choose the constituency with which you have the greatest connection. Please see the descriptions of multi- and inter-jurisdictional candidates in the Eligibility Criteria section above.
- h. You are applying for a Rhodes Scholarship for entry to the University of Oxford in October 2019; the scholarship cannot be deferred.
- i. The Rhodes Scholarship is confirmed only upon successful admission to the University of Oxford.
- j. If the Selection Committee does not find a sufficiently qualified candidate they will not make a selection.
- k. The decision of the Selection Committee is final.

6. Procedure after Selection

- a. Please note that successful applicants will need to apply to the University of Oxford very soon after selection. Full details will be given upon selection.
- b. The full application of successful candidates will be accessible to Rhodes House, Oxford, where the Scholarship references can, in many cases, be re-used as appropriate in support of the successful candidate's subsequent application to the University of Oxford.
- c. Applicants for a second undergraduate degree with senior status will need to complete an application form, provided on selection, which must reach the Registrar at Rhodes House (registrar@rhodeshouse.ox.ac.uk) by noon Friday 30 November 2018. Candidates must therefore make a quick submission immediately following selection.
- d. Successful candidates will be encouraged to disclose, in confidence, any medical condition or special needs which may require academic or personal support in Oxford. This disclosure is entirely voluntary and is requested only to enable Rhodes House to provide suitable support in Oxford and to make the transition to Oxford as smooth as possible.

The Rhodes Trust may contact you some time after the submission deadline to ask for feedback on the application process and any interactions you have had with the Rhodes Trust staff and volunteers.

Please note – before starting an online Rhodes Scholarship application you should be aware of the Rhodes Trust data protection policy for applications: <https://www.rhodeshouse.ox.ac.uk/scholarships/application-data-protection-statement>

Glossary of terms:

National Secretary: There is one National Secretary for each Rhodes constituency. The National Secretaries oversee the selection process, from outreach, to applicant queries, to shortlisting and final selection. Most National Secretaries will also sit on the Selection Committee, although where a National Secretary oversees multiple regions this may not always be possible. For National Secretary contact details please see the website.

Second BA (with Senior Status): Candidates who have already completed an undergraduate degree can apply to do a second undergraduate degree over two years (i.e. with Senior Status). Senior Status is the only basis on which a Rhodes Scholar may pursue an undergraduate degree. Further details can be found here. Please note that an Oxford BA can be converted into an MA without additional work, explained here.

Selection Committee: The selection committees conduct the shortlisting and interviews and make the decisions that lead to the selection of the Rhodes Scholars. The committee will include Rhodes Scholars and distinguished members of the community representing a diverse range of interests and experience.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIP 2019: NEW ZEALANDGUIDANCE FOR REFEREEES

References must be written in English and must be received by 23:50 NZST, 19 July 2018.

Thank you for your willingness to serve as a referee for one of the applicants for the Rhodes Scholarship. References form a crucial part of the selection process, and therefore your reference could make the difference to an applicant's success. The following notes are intended to serve as a guide as you write your reference.

Background Information

The Rhodes Scholarship programme is the oldest (established 1903), and perhaps the most prestigious, international scholarship programme in the world. Administered by the Rhodes Trust in Oxford, the programme offers fully-funded Scholarships for postgraduate study at the University of Oxford, one of the world's leading universities. More than 100 Scholarships are offered each year to outstanding young people from around the world. Selection Committees are looking for young leaders of outstanding intellect and character who are motivated to engage with global challenges, committed to the service of others and show promise of becoming value-driven, principled leaders for the world's future. The Selection Committees are looking for the following:

- academic excellence (First Class Honours or GPA of minimum 3.7 out of 4.0, or equivalent)
- energy to use their talents to the full (as demonstrated by mastery in areas such as sports, music, debate, dance, theatre, and artistic pursuits, particularly where teamwork is involved)
- truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and protection of the weak, kindness, unselfishness and fellowship
- moral force of character and instincts to lead, and to take an interest in their fellow human beings.

The Rhodes Selection Committees are looking for outstanding young people who are motivated to engage with the global challenges facing humankind, who are committed to the service of others, and to the promotion of international understanding and peace. In short, the Committee seeks young people of outstanding intellect, character, leadership, and commitment to service, who demonstrate a strong propensity to emerge as 'leaders for the world's future', wherever their careers might take them, and in any field. For further details, see: <http://www.rhodeshouse.ox.ac.uk/>

The Rhodes Selection Committee will be grateful, therefore, if you would supply a frank and confidential statement regarding the applicant's qualifications. Your prompt response to the auto-generated email request will be of great assistance to the applicant and to the Selection Committee.

The Selection Committee will have available for consideration a copy of the applicant's university academic transcript, curriculum vitae, and personal statement of academic interests, other pursuits, extracurricular activities and reasons for wishing to study at Oxford. Observations which would enhance the Committee's understanding of these records will be especially welcomed. Your comments should not exceed two A4 pages (minimum 10 point type).

A brief introduction of yourself would be helpful, including any connections that you have with the Rhodes Trust, Rhodes Scholars and also the University of Oxford (such connections are certainly not essential).

Proven intellectual and academic quality of a very high standard is the first quality required of applicants. However, and just as important, applicants will also be required to demonstrate integrity of character, interest in and respect for their fellow human beings, the ability to lead, the energy to use their talents to the full and the desire to make an effective contribution to the world around them as described above.

A Rhodes Scholar will undertake postgraduate study at Oxford, a taught or research degree, or a second undergraduate degree with senior status (over two years). Subject to fulfilling the entry criteria for their chosen course, Rhodes Scholars may pursue any full-time postgraduate course offered by the University of Oxford, whether or not in their field of expertise. In all cases, entry to Oxford is very competitive indeed.

Whether you have been asked to provide an academic reference, or a character/extra-curricular reference, it is not expected that you will be able to speak from first-hand knowledge of all the applicant's qualifications.

Academic referees: If you are primarily acquainted with the candidate through a teacher/student relationship, it is expected that your appraisal will concentrate first and primarily on academic quality and potential, although your assessment of other qualities will be welcomed by the Committee. Academic referees should note that, in the case of a successful applicant, your letter will be used by Oxford departments and colleges for determining the Rhodes Scholar-elect's academic case for admission to postgraduate study. Consequently, a detailed assessment of the candidate's academic qualifications and suitability to undertake Master's / doctoral level study at Oxford will be very important. Since the University of Oxford requires the following information from referees writing in support of graduate applicants, you are asked to comment on:

- a. the applicant's relative academic standing in comparison with other students on the same course at the same institution – eg 5%, 10%, 25%?
- b. How many students in the applicant's year group on their programme of study, i.e. with how many students are you comparing the applicant?
- c. on what basis are you making the assessment - personal assessment/official class rank?

Character referees: If, on the other hand, you are better acquainted with the applicant through non-academic interests, it is expected that you will concentrate on assessment of character and non-academic qualities, in the knowledge that the Committee is looking for scholars who show promise of outstanding achievement in later life.

Please do not hesitate to speak of the applicant's limitations as well as strong points. Committees tend naturally to be dubious of appraisals that imply a given individual has no limitations. Your reply will, of course, be treated as strictly confidential by the Selection Committee.

All letters of recommendation for applicants should be addressed to the Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committee. The Selection Committee (and subsequently the University of Oxford) asks that your letter of recommendation be on headed paper, signed, and uploaded in pdf format. You will receive an auto-generated email requesting the reference, which will contain instructions for completing and submitting your letter. As well as uploading your reference letter, you will be asked to complete some basic information about yourself and your relationship to the applicant. All letters of reference should be received via the Embark online system.

Please note that Rhodes Scholarship referees are not typically personal friends, contemporaries or relatives. If you fit into one of these categories, please make the connection clear in your reference.

References must be written in English and must be received by 23:50 NZST, 19 July 2018.
